Oath for Installation of Officers:

The Past President (Kyle Lieneck): [Opening remarks.]

Judge McKibben: Kyle Lieneck, you and your board have served your organization and your community well. Please accept my thanks and congratulations on behalf of the BCAWL members and the community. However, your job is not complete. You will be in a position to advise and counsel the newly elected officers. Your help and guidance is still needed.

Right now your position will continue to be a very important one. Though you are no longer in the position of highest authority, your experience and leadership can be a great tool. Your knowledge of the executive duties enables you to make helpful suggestions without interfering with the leadership of the new president. You are asked to be willing to serve in an important capacity within this fine organization. You are specifically being asked to help make the transition of administration a smooth one by generously sharing your knowledge and experience with your successor.

At this time, would the new officers & directors of the Board please rise, step forward and join me for the administration of the oath. We thank you for volunteering your time, dedication, devotion and commitment to this organization. You are responsible for the administration of the affairs of BCAWL. You must determine the policies and activities of the organization and work with prospective members and continue to develop an even stronger organization. You must also be fiscally responsible. In brief, all the general management of your organization rests upon you. You are to be present at all the regular and specially called meetings of your board and to take an active part in all the deliberations. Express your opinions concerning all organizational affairs by considering the organization first, always centering around a single desire for the best welfare of BCAWL.

With those duties in mind, you will now take the oath and begin your responsibilities pertaining to your office.

Do you swear or affirm:

- To promote the welfare and interest of women lawyers;
- To promote women's rights;
- To promote reform in the law, facilitate the administration of justice, and seek equality and justice for all;
- To uphold the Constitutions of the State of Florida and the United States of America; &
- To uphold the highest standard of integrity, courtesy and honor in the legal profession?

[All so swear or affirm]

Congratulations on becoming members of the Board of Directors of the Brevard County Association for Women Lawyers for the year 2016-2017! Please join me in thanking and congratulating this fine group of women who will lead this organization to even greater heights.
